

Katenna Jones

Principal
Jones Animal Behavior

Through her business Jones Animal Behavior, Katenna Jones provides private dog and cat behavior consulting services and group classes and also speaks internationally to animal care and control professionals.

Katenna is the former Director of Educational Programs for the Association of Professional Dog Trainers, Animal Behaviorist for the American Humane Association, and Behaviorist and Cruelty Investigator for the Rhode Island SPCA.

She is co-chair of the IAABC's Shelter Division, has been involved in animal sheltering and rescue since 2000, consults regularly with shelters and rescues, and is a disaster responder.

She is also author of Fetching the Perfect Dog Trainer: Getting the Best for You and Your Dog and has contributed to numerous local and national publications.

Katenna earned her Master's Degree from Brown University where she studied animal behavior, learning and cognition. She is an Associate Certified Applied Animal Behaviorist, Certified Cat and Dog Behavior Consultant, and Certified Pet Dog Trainer.

Abstract

Quick and Dirty: Easy Bmod for Shelters

Many behavior "problems" are quite normal and rather easy to fix. So what can we do to help shelter pets show their best selves? To begin, let's work toward implementing effective training and behavior modification strategies that will gain the most positive outcomes for the shelter organization, the community, and the pets themselves.

This session will address basic concepts of dealing with common behaviors quickly and easily.